Commission, with Floyd Tinkham chairman, and James Shepley, spokesman, decided to seek funds from the Ford Foundation for use in local conservation. The group discussed the effort with Selectmen and obtained the chairman's signature on the application. In February of this year, Mr. A. I. Reese, District Conservationist from the Plymouth County Conservation District, spoke to the Mattapoisett Commission about the need, cost and the steps to have a Soils Interpretive Report prepared for Mattapoisett. The report which takes 9 months to prepare costs $2,025., a Resource Study and Development Plan (25 copies of which will be available to all town departments) costs $100. and a Conservation Plan is without cost. Details were explained to the Selectmen and the annual town warrant sought funds to match the grant from Ford as is the requirement. A misunderstanding on the filing for the grant. Mr. Sanford has since exerted a great deal of effort in the successful try for the grant, which was approved on July 7th.

The Soils Interpretive Report, according to Chairman Shepley, will take the guess work out of a most vital area of planning.

It will enable the various town officials to have a source of information readily available that previously was guesswork, or a matter of interpretation. This report in a town which contains extensive wetlands, both marsh and swamp, as well as great variety in its soil should have an extremely beneficial effect in preventing mistakes which have proven costly in the past.

O.R. Season Opener

CARDINALS NIP BULLDOGS IN FINAL MINUTE

Sixty seconds from an upset over Case the Old Rochester Bulldogs saw the game fly away on the determined legs of Kevin Walmsley. On a fourth down desperation play, Walmsley was stopped momentarily and then turned on a second effort that broke him loose to get a first down and seconds later to score the margin of victory on a 28-yard touchdown.

It was a ball game full of surprises as the underdog Old Rochester team took on Case which is a team staffed with veterans and the class of the league. Old Rochester started slowly as Case mounted a strong running attack that rolled over the home team. The first drive covered 73 yards featuring the fleet Walmsley who capped the effort with a 5-yard dive to score the first touchdown. Case took an 8 to 0 lead when the two point conversion was good.

The second period was a seesaw affair until near the half. Dave Young, OR's junior quarterback in his first start, handed off to Bruce Wingate who exploded through the center to race 44 yards for OR's first touchdown of the season. The try for a 2 point conversion failed.

Just before the half, the Cardinals received and put on a sustained 67 yard drive. Don Carrington scored on a 40-yard run. They passed to score 2 points.

In the third quarter, a more confident, harder hitting Bulldog team took the field. OR received the kickoff and put on a strong drive. Richard Reilly was the spark plug of the drive. He plunged in from the two to score, and with the two point conversion good the score was 16 to 14.

In the beginning of the fourth quarter, after a defensive battle, the Cardinal quarterback Medeiros lofted a "bomb". It was picked off by Reilly who galloped to the one yard line before he was nailed. Reilly plunged to give Old Rochester the lead 20 to 16.

The Old Rochester defense then stubbornly resisted a Case drive that used four of the 5 remaining minutes. The Old Rochester fans were on their feet cheering as the drive seemingly was stalled with less than a minute remaining. On fourth down, Walmsley's second effort ripped him loose and that was all she wrote.

The young Bulldog team visibly gained poise and confidence in this battle with Case. They demonstrated an ability to keep their cool and come from behind. The Cardinal powerhouse had their hands full as OR came within an inch of victory.

This Saturday the Bulldogs travel to Diman Voke.

Letter to the Editor

I must say at the outset, that this newspaper's sense of values are diminished only by its reactionary, and if I may say so, somewhat old line political stands which would have made Thomas Jefferson roll over and 'play dead'. Reactionary indeed, when this venerable newspaper can take a stand such as you have, in support of the greatest perpetrator of war this country has ever known, Richard M. Nixon. A quote from a local newspaper in Mattapoisett.... "No man in recent political history has made apparent snap decisions of such poor quality", in reference to George McGovern. I might add in regard to this that Nixon said four years ago, "No man deserves to be president for another term, if he has not ended the war in 4 years". He said it 4 years ago, and I feel I should honor his request since the war is not over, since well over 130,000 fighting men are still in action in Southeast Asia, and since he has especially done a fine job of unemploying people. Lest we also forget his pledge to bring us together. It's a joke and we know it. The McGovern domestic policy proposed may offer a change but it can only be a change for the good from what we now have. Another quote from a Mattapoisett tabloid..." it is now inconceivable that the Communists will come to any agreement with our government, while McGovern stands a chance to be elected". I submit sir, that even though your rightist leanings are so apparent, common sense dictates a simple fact. We cannot win in Vietnam and we shouldn't be there. Brain trusts and scholars over the world have proven it. Domestically again, why is it taken for granted that the rich get richer, and can deduct their steak dinners and martinis and the poor get poorer eating their salami sandwiches which they cannot deduct. Despite some earlier logistical mistakes by the McGovern organization, we mustn't lose the facts of the Republican "matters". King Richard after his sacrosanct coronation in Miami Beach, tries to get America to forget "Watergate", "Mitchell", "10,000,000 Dollars" and where it came from. Can we, without lying to ourselves, look to Godly faith and leadership in Richard Nixon for "4 more Years" or are we starving for new leadership here at home and abroad. If Nixon's trip to China and Russia were such great feats of international diplomacy as your editorial writers say, what have we got to show for it, just what did we gain?

George McGovern, unlike what his opponents want to frighten people about, is concerned about bringing a badly divided country together and to instill faith and trust back to the Presidency. If that's radical, I'm for it.

haps another glance at this short paragraph will provide an insight into the thinking of McGovern. This quote is: "Any young person or any man or woman who works with his hands who is for Mr. Nixon is too confused to know which end is up and that goes for Mr. Gallup too." Since McGovern staked his hopes on the young voter and the polls now show the young voter to prefer President Nixon in overwhelming numbers, he now finds them confused. It must be another case of everyone in the parade being out of step except George.

The Great Land Gouge

AND HOW TO CURB IT

by Warren K. Colby

Massachusetts is being gutted by a wasteful and expensive tax policy that benefits no one; the only way out is to change our Constitution.

It is not always that sportsmen, environmentalists, naturalists, farmers and city folks see things eye to eye. We've all heard of sportsmen who characterize farmers as crotchety Scrooges because they don't always welcome sportsmen roaming around their fields and pastures. Hunters and birdwatchers often engage in academic debate over the morality of controlled harvest. Some environmentalists resent farmers who disregard the environment in their use of persistent pesticides; and some farmers refer to environmentalists as "instant ecologists" who are bent on putting them out of business. Farmers often have unsavory things to say about city people who move into the lovely farm country and then complain about farm noises, odors and the fact that the animals aren't "house broken".

But there's one thing that everyone agrees on - the need for open spaces.

Assessing the farmer's land as potential housing developments, shopping centers or industrial sites instead of what it actually is - productive farmland - is the surest and quickest way to drive him out of business and to assure that his open space will be lost forever. Yet, incredibly, this is just what we've been doing here in Massachusetts since 1961 when our State Supreme Judicial Court ruled that any other approach would violate the State Constitution as it was and is written. This taxation policy has helped bring about, in a little more than ten years, the demise of more than half our farms.

An amendment to the constitution is therefore necessary to permit assessors to consider farmland on its value in farm production rather than on the value of nearby developed land. Such an amendment will appear as Referendum No. 1 on the November ballot. If it passes, the rate of destruction of our open spaces will be substantially reduced.

If Massachusetts citizens understand the unfairness, the danger and the expense in the present situation as well as the mutual benefits contained in the proposed amendment, there can be little genuine opposition to the Farmland Assessment Referendum. The big problem, however, is alerting enough of the voting public in time for the November ballot.

Most new houses do not pay their way. Many towns, once easily seduced by the song of the developers, have learned through bitter experience that it costs less to give a tax break on open land or even to acquire it than it does to allow it to be exploited and then provide the many services that new developments demand. One Massachusetts town, for instance, has an average annual deficit of $730 for each new house built. In another town the deficit per new house is $1800.

Massachusetts has 900,000 acres of farmland of which 235,000 acres are devoted to crops; the rest are in pasture or woodland. In the last 25 years cropland has been reduced by roughly 400,000 acres — much of it developed and lost irretrievably as a productive natural resource.

In the last 13 years the number of farms in Massachusetts has nosedived from 14,000 to 6,200. Any farmer knows that he can't afford to pasture cows or raise crops on land assessed at $1000 to $3000 an acre when he is competing with people in other areas of Massachusetts or in other states where the land is valued at a few dollars an acre. If nearby land begins to be developed it is not at all uncommon for a farmer's tax bill to go up by 500 percent in a single year.

Sportsmen and naturalists know that farmland and farm-forest edge hold all the vital ingredients for a free-flowing well of wildlife resources. Dense timber stands are sterile beside the farm's teeming hedgerows, fields and young woodlands.

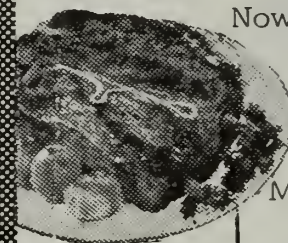

Environmentalists know that open farmland promotes water absorption and retention, thus replenishing streams, lakes and public water supplies. In one growing season an acre of corn can convert all the carbon dioxide an automobile produces in one year to life-giving oxygen.

Residents of the inner city need open land to provide them with nearby market gardens, nurseries and greenhouses for their plants and planting stock, and places to stroll and enjoy natural scenery.

In short we all need open space around us for our well-being and for the "quality of life" that we are hearing so much about these days.

Mrs. Frank E. Belton, in the absence of the secretary, read a thank you note from the DAR Good Citizen from Dartmouth High School for the memorable day she had at the Spring Conference in Boston with the 280 other girls from schools all over the State. She also read a note from the International Paper Company congratulating the Chapter on its anniversary for which they are sending Keep America Beautiful pads.

Mrs. Frank Taves, in the absence of the vice regent, read the President General's message telling of being part of the celebration at Independence Hall where the DAR helped refurbish rooms. They plan to spend $200,000 more on this project, asking each member to contribute $1.00.

National Defense Chairman. She also read the Resolutions passed at the Spring Continental Congress in Washington: opposition to amnesty, promoting wider study of American Government and American history, and opposition to Internationalizing the Panama Canal - some of them.

Mrs. Walter Lang, Conservation Chairman, read an interesting article explaining the Red Tide situation and how it affects shellfish only.

Mrs. Nowak took part in the flag raising ceremony at the Fairhaven Town Hall during the Festival of Flags, representing the Fort Phoenix Chapter, along with 11 other citizens from that area, each of whom raised a flag denoting a period in the growth of this country. The Fourth Old Dartmouth Militia added zest to the ceremony by shooting their muskets as each person raised a flag.

The 60th anniversary will be held November 13th at the Wamsutta Club and it was voted to invite various State officers, Regents from the Fourth District DAR, as well as prominent citizens who will be honored on that occasion.

The next meeting will be held at the Wamsutta Club on October 16th, with luncheon at 12 o'clock preceding the meeting.
